Lanta Island

The word of "Lanta" came from "Lantas". It is a Java Language. It's meaning is the device for roasting fish. It made from square stick raised from the ground. It is assumed that in the past Javanese navigator reached this area and roasted fish in this island. This area is a good shelter and also has rich water. So, called this island "Lantas" and after call distortedly "Lanta"

Koh Rok Island

Koh Rok

Koh Rok has a beautiful fine sand beach, very clear like a mirror, and is a place for diving to see abundant of corals. Under the sea it is filled with shallow water corals such as Sivuuous cup cora, Califolwer. In diving to see corals, in addition to seeing coral, you also will excite with abundant of fish that are finding their food around coral lines such as Wrass, Moorish idal, Bluetang and Clown anemone fish. The fact that there is no human settlement on the islands makes them the most exculsive retreats in this area.
